

Edging Toward Iberia: Theory & Practice

A SYMPOSIUM HONORING

Jean Dangler

SESSION 1

9:00am Christopher Dunn, Welcome and Introduction

9:15–10:00am Jean Dangler, Professor, Tulane University,
Reading the Edges of Jaime Roig's Espill and Isabel de Villena's Vita Christi

10:00–10:45am Michael Solomon, Professor, University of Pennsylvania,
Edging Toward a Beating in Iberia: Alfonso X, Jacme Roig, and Marian Masochism

10:45–11:30am Montserrat Piera, Professor, Temple University,
The Physiognomy of Exclusion: Francesc Eiximenis's Regiment de la cosa publica, Urban Reform and Valencia's Jewish Quarter in the 14th century

11:30–12:15pm Discussion

12:15–1:15pm Lunch break

SESSION 2

Chair Edwige Tamelet Talbayev, Associate Professor of French and Director of Middle East and North African Studies

1:15–2:00pm Michelle M. Hamilton, Professor, University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, Life at the Edges: Imagined Cities and Conquests in al-Andalus

2:00–2:45pm Eric Calderwood, Associate Professor, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, On Earth or in Poems: The Many Lives of al-Andalus

2:45–3:30pm Yasmina Aidi, Assistant Professor, Tulane University, El uso de 'Al-Ándalus' en los discursos de odio en España: Respuestas y reflexiones populares (2001–2022)

3:30–4:15pm Discussion

OCTOBER 27, 2023 • 9AM–4:15PM
Jones Hall 100A • Greenleaf Conference Room
Tulane University

TULANE UNIVERSITY
School of Liberal Arts

Sponsored by the Center for Scholars of the School of Liberal Arts, the Newcomb Institute, the Department of Spanish and Portuguese, Middle Eastern and North African Studies, and Medieval & Early Modern Studies at Tulane University.

A map of the Maghreb understood by the 10th-century mapmaker Abū Ishāq al-Iṣṭakhri (fl. 951)