

WOMEN & MOVEMENT #13 AFRICAN-AMERICAN WOMEN AFFECTING the ARTS in NEW ORLEANS

Multi-hyphenate Hustlers: Cobbling Together an Arts Career

Jessica Mixon

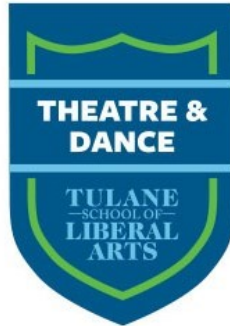

Krystal Gem

Synamin Vixen

Tenaj Wallace

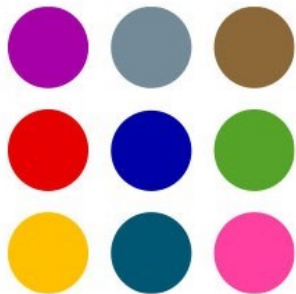

Dr. Denise Frazier

The Women and Movement series is designed to collectively engage women scholars and artists from across the Gulf South region to take part in discourse about place, performance, and the socio-political issues that transform their bodies, art, language, and greater community.

Panelists and select credits include: Jessica Mixon (a multi-hyphenate performing artist, host of "The Self-Aware Millennial" podcast, and owner of Triple Threat Media), Krystal Gem (Grammy nominated vocalist, performing artist, and talent coach), Synamin Vixen (writer, educator, Black Studies scholar, singer, and choreographer), and Tenaj Wallace (multidisciplinary artist and community advocate). Moderated by Dr. Denise Frazier (Programming Director for Prospect New Orleans, educator, musician, interdisciplinary artist, and 2023–2024 MLK Fellow at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology).

Sponsored by Tulane's School of Liberal Arts and the Africana Studies Program. Organized by Dr. John "Ray" Proctor of the Tulane Department of Theatre and Dance and the Africana Studies program.

For more information please contact Regina Cairns by phone at (504) 314-2854 or send an email to rcairns@tulane.edu.

FRIDAY, FEB. 7, 2025 • 11AM–12:30PM
LUPIN THEATER • 16 NEWCOMB BLVD
DIXON ANNEX • TULANE UPTOWN CAMPUS
FREE & OPEN TO THE PUBLIC • REGISTRATION NOT REQUIRED

